Class news 25/9/26

With so many exciting trips and topics to learn about, I am sure the children will have a fantastic year.

Over the last few weeks, we have introduced our history topic, Crime and Punishment, exploring evidence and punishments from the last 1,000 years through a range of hands-on activities. This week, the children have been learning about what constituted a witch and the horrific punishments accused witches endured in attempts to prove their innocence.

In maths, we have been consolidating our place value knowledge and extending our understanding to numbers up to one million.

In English, using Millions as our stimulus, we have already written a formal letter to Damian's father and developed our editing skills to improve our writing.

Our visit to the law courts was a great success. The children learned about our judicial system and experienced a mock court case. Not only were they impeccably behaved, but they also took their roles very seriously and fully embraced the experience.
